

Source: <http://safety.blr.com/news.aspx?id=115258>

January 28, 2010

Research Facility Earns Kudos for Commuter Policies, Programs

RTI International, a North Carolina research institute with a staff of more than 2,800, has earned the National Standard of Excellence from the organization Best Workplaces for Commuters.

RTI was recognized for practices like offering staff members transit and vanpool passes, rideshare matching, preferred parking for carpools and vanpools, secure bicycle parking, and a commuter awards program.

RTI also provides staff the option of compressed work schedules or working remotely.

“As leaders in health, environmental science, and energy research, we at RTI recognize our responsibility to promote environmental sustainability and employee wellness,” said HR Vice President Lorena Clark. “We continue to work to improve our commuter program at all our office locations and to encourage staff members to participate.” RTI also provides those who commute by bike with reflective safety vests and water bottles.

Learn more about Best Workplaces for Commuters at www.bestworkplaces.org.